

DENTAL SOCIETY FAVORS HYGIENE IN THE SCHOOLS

Rock Island County Organization Willing to Donate Services in Worthy Cases.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Interesting Clinical Program Carried Out—Banquet at Hotel Harms at Night.

Members of the Rock Island County Dental society, who held the October meeting in this city yesterday afternoon and evening, are strongly in favor of dental hygiene in the schools, and discussed the subject along with their other work.

The dentists expressed themselves as willing to donate their services for the betterment of the children in the schools, whose parents were unable to pay for their proper medical and dental care.

Further than a discussion, nothing was done in regard to co-operating with the school board in the matter. Within the course of the next month or so, a special meeting will be called for the purpose of making preliminary plans for taking up the dental hygiene in the schools, providing, however, the members of the board are agreeable to such a step on the part of dentists.

OFFICERS ELECTED.
The business meeting was held in the office of Dr. Carl W. Mueller, in the Best building at 4:30 o'clock, and officers were elected for the ensuing year. They are:

President—Dr. J. O. Wood, Geneseo.
Vice President—Dr. L. T. Outten, East Moline.

Secretary—Dr. Carl W. Mueller, Rock Island.

Clinics were conducted previous to the business meeting in the offices of Dr. E. P. Ames, Dr. C. W. Mueller and Dr. B. H. Sherrard, in the Best building. The clinical program follows:

Nitrous Oxide Anesthesia—Dr. J. H. Nichols, Rock Island.

Sweating Gold Bands—Dr. M. B. Sant, Moline.

Table Clinic—Dr. R. Volland, Iowa City.

Root Amputation—Dr. H. G. Trent, Rock Island.

DINNER AT THE HARMS.

Following the clinics, a dinner was served at the Hotel Harms at 6:30 o'clock. Thirty-five members of the society were present. A paper was read by Dr. Charles Long, this city, on "Pyorrhea Vaccine," following the dinner. A very interesting lecture, illustrated with stereoscopic slides, was that given by Dr. R. Volland, professor of operative dentistry in the University of Iowa at Iowa City. A general discussion followed. The meeting was one of the most interesting ever held by the organization.

FROM GRAND OPERA STAR TO THEATER OWNER AND MANAGER, WOMAN'S CAREER

Mrs. Gertrude Metzgar.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 15.—From grand opera star to moving picture theatre owner and manager. That's the career of Mrs. Gertrude Metzgar of Kalamazoo. And the most interesting fact about it all is that she has made a decided success of both efforts.

To achieve this success, however, Mrs. Metzgar has known all the difficulties of the music student abroad, more or less dependent upon her own resources. She has known the pleasure which comes from the realization of approaching success. She has known the thrill which comes to great artists when they hold immense audiences spellbound by the magic power of their singing. She's known the culture of society and her art. And she's known what it means to give up all this and enter upon a cold hard business enterprise more or less tangled. She's known what it means to gather up the fragments of complicated business affairs and from them to launch an entirely new venture and bring it to success.

And now after all this Mrs. Metzgar owns and manages a successful moving picture theatre in Decatur which she plans to make one of a string of such houses.

The story of her career reads like fiction, so strangely interwoven are its details.

After completing her studies in this country under the best available teachers, she went abroad, where for eight years she studied in London, Berlin, Paris and Rome. Then she made her debut abroad and for 50 nights she sang the leading roles in "Il Trovatore," "Rigoletto" and "Faust."

Then she came to America, where she was married to a wealthy commission merchant of Grand Rapids, Mich. Meantime she gave grand opera recitals throughout the country. After a few years, however, her husband died, leaving his business affairs hopelessly tangled. Little by little she straightened them. But to do this she had to completely abandon her profession.

Then seeking quiet she went to the home of her mother in Decatur, a little Michigan village.

Decatur had no form of entertainment. They were clamoring for something at popular prices. So she rented a building, purchased the best moving picture apparatus to be secured, procured only the best films and began giving moving picture shows twice a week.

Two similar ventures had previously failed. But this was different. Every night the theatre was packed.

Then she conceived the idea of building a theatre all her own. So she began work. And now the theatre is nearly completed, and will soon be formally opened to the public.

So successful has this venture been that Mrs. Metzgar plans the erection of a high class moving pictures in many other towns.

AT THE ILLINOIS.

"The Tik-Tok Man of Oz" will be the offering at the Illinois Oct. 22. Oliver Morosco, the successful California producing manager, is making the local presentation and the entire cast and production comes intact direct from an all summer run at Cohan's Grand opera house, Chicago. The production represents many tireless efforts on the part of the producer, as well as the author, L. Frank Baum, and Louis Gottschalk, the composer. The story of "The Tik-Tok Man of Oz" reveals the adventures of Betty Bobbin and Hank, the mule, in Fairyland. Here they meet the Clockwork Man, the Shaggy Man, Princess Ozma, Queen Ann and the Army of Oogaboo, Polychrome, Private Files, the Ugly Man, King Ruggedo, the Metal Monarch, and all the other interesting and unusual people Mr. Baum has put into his books, and which have been incorporated into his fantastic play. The prologue shows Betty and Hank shipwrecked on the shores of the Rose Kingdom. Here they meet the Shaggy Man, who is bound for the Land of the Metal Monarch in search of his long lost brother, and Princess Ozma, who has been banished from the Royal Gardens of the Rose Kingdom. At the Cross Roads, which is the home of the Field Flowers, they come upon Polychrome, who has lost her rainbow. She agrees to accompany them in the assault on the domain of King Ruggedo and presses into service Queen Ann and her Oogaboo army of 16 officers and one private. Before the party starts on its journey they rescue the Tik-Tok Man from the well where he has been thrown by the Metal Monarch. He is a clockwork man who does exactly what he is wound up to do. An entrance is gained into the cavern of the Metal Monarch and with the assistance of the magnet of love, the Shaggy Man compels King Ruggedo to release his brother, Polychrome finds her rainbow. Private Files falls in love with Princess Ozma and the final scene shows a stirring stage picture of exceptional magnificence. The cast includes Morton and Moore, Charlotte Greenwood, Sydney Grant, Dolly Castles, Lenora Novasio, Gipsy Dale, Fred Woodward, John Dunsmuir, Mary Mooney and the celebrated Rosebud chorus of 50.

AT THE EMPIRE.

"In Wrong," a tabloid musical comedy, is announced as the attraction for the last half of the week at the Empire, beginning tomorrow. The company is headed by De Noyer and Danie. It is claimed the production is entirely new, and that the dialogue and songs are fresh and smart. It is promised that "In Wrong" will differ from the run of tabloids already presented at the Empire in that several specialties will be introduced during the presentation of the comedy.

THE MOVIES

"The Revelation," a story based on theosophy, is to be the featured film at the Family tomorrow. The dream of John Burns revives on the motion picture screen the prehistoric forerunner of man—as he lived, fought and loved, in the caves and woods of the early quaternary period. Science and imagination unite to make the film one of the most memorable that will be shown for many a day. John Burns, a student of theosophy, is at a loss to understand his instinctive antipathy for Bates, whom he meets at the shore resort, where he and Mrs. Burns are staying. He is used to his wife's flirtatious ways—and cannot really blame her much for amusing herself with other men, considering she is pretty and young—and he such a sober old fellow, always engrossed in his theosophical studies. Still, whenever he comes upon her with Bates, in some corner of the rocks on the beach—his whole nature cries out to beware of the man, and to warn Susanne against him. One day, in the hammock, Burns fell asleep over "Transmigration and Modern Traits"—and dreams a dream which explains everything. He wakes just in time to rescue Susanne from the clutches of a prehistoric cave man, in twentieth-century guise—Burns' rival and deadly enemy for upwards of a hundred thousand years. The drama has a striking conclusion—confirming the onlooker's belief in the doctrine of theosophy—as accounting for much, otherwise beyond understanding, in human nature today.
